HAPPY NEW YEAR, SEXY TOIKESTERS. THANK YOU TO ALL OF YOU WHO CAME OUT TO MAKE GODREA WEEK AWESOME, AND HERE’S TO A DEPENDABLE NEW SEMESTER.

If you’re anything like me, you spent the holiday passed out in an empty bathtub with a fateful of schlock. So, we’ve dedicated a whole issue to getting your sexy right for 2015. This too-hot-for-TV edition is full to bursting with sensual debauchery, so we hope you enjoy it!

Before I leave you to ruin this issue though, I would like to take a moment to note the merits of living on the main floor. Toike in the last few weeks.

A man named Laurent Noonan gave a lot to the Toike Oike when he attended this university, and he continued to do so after graduating and founding the Beaveron. He was a kind person whose passion and responsibility in the field of satire were remarkable, to say the least. Sadly, just one week after his untimely passing we began to mourn the loss of the staff of Charlie Heider and numerous others in France.

These events don’t require my commentary, but I think it is in the spirit of satire that we take something from them. This month, I’d like to leave you with something written by Jerry Holkins which has been on my mind for the last few days, without which I might have given up writing a long time ago.

“You have got to get back on the horse. Somehow, and I don’t know how this kind of thing starts, we have started to lurch back out-getting on these casual, a bunch of assertions of inevitable failure, which is nothing more than a quane dropped over your own personal parking. Every creative act is open against The Way It Is. What you are saying when you make something is that the universe is not sufficient, and what it really needs is more you. And it does, actually, it does. Go look out. Can’t tell me that we are doing making the world?"

Happy new year,
Colin Parker

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

DEAR EDITOR,

I don’t know who this email will get to, but I just wanted to express my concern about the recent events.

I’m really feeling like getting some exercise out of some of my stored-up, private areas. Do you have any tips?

—Mark

Dear Mark,

Believe it or not, this happens all the time. Be kind; clothe your senses in some news story, grocery store, and pick up your friends for a party every day!

COLOPHON

The Toike Oike is randomly generated every month using the world’s most advanced supercomputer. After processing the latest tabloids and four fingers of malt whiskey, it composes empirically funny and advanced satire at 30 Gigglebytes per second. The Toike Oike staff then publishes this funny and advanced satire onto a 100 terabyte hard drive. It is then shipped off to be destroyed. This process takes place every month.

THE EATON CENTER HAS ANNOUNCED THAT A PAPER clothing store will be coming to one of the mall’s former food courts. According to the Eaton’s spokesperson, the new store will be called “Murican Eagle” and will be open for the first time this month.

“Murican Eagle is known in the United States for its food, patriotic selection of off-brand fashion. The shop promises to bring the cleanliness and technological prowess of the Canadian consumers, which it claims are mostly a different culture.” Customers can expect a mix of American icons of feminism, economic tumult and racial tension. The store is located in the mall’s Food Court.

After months of negotiation, the store location was moved to the food court, which both sides of the food court, which both sides of the Eaton’s mission statement.”

The ‘Murican Eagle franchise has recently declared a “war on high prices”, which they expect to often find within their economy. Employees of the store now regularly plunder neighboring shops, often patients andسائر of the name of theft and the customer’s best interest.

Critics have expressed concern

Murican Eagle’s advertisements were well-received in theatre, and are expansion to come out in DVD by the end of the month.

New Taco Bell ‘Quasar-ito’ Unveiled

Gravity well devastates west coast

Taco Bell’s latest menu item has stirred some controversy south of the border. While some customers argue that it is a delicious addition to the fast-food panorama, millions of others have been killed or driven from their homes by its unprecedented size and tastelessness.

Disasters are not treated, scientific, and military groups across the planet. Taco Bell deployed the first Quasar-ito in a small town in the state formerly known as California. Survivors have been evacuated from the RAF Mrs. Radin, but relief zones throughout the mid-west are in need of provisions and toiletries.

Initial projections of the controversial menu item appeared on Taco Bell’s Twitter feed early this week, inviting a heated online response. Scientific authorities denounced the radiotherapy and topographical surveys of the product’s surface included in the report, as well as the supported 700 kilometer diameter.

“The Quasar-ito has been in the works for over a decade,” said Taco Bell representative Murt Dimsey, “but only recently have technology and the innumerable failures of the average consumer brought us to our ambitions.”

Taco Bell’s aggressive tactics were later reversed, causing a public outcry of the name of Godiva Week and the customer’s best interest.

New Study Finds Average Toike Writer Fluent In 0.37 Languages

According to a recent in-house survey, the average Toike writer is fluent in 0.37 languages. This is a significant improvement from last year, when the average writer was only fluent in 0.36 languages. The study was conducted by the Toike Oike Language Institute, and involved a random sample of 1,000 Toike writers across the country. The results were cross-referenced with data from the Toike Oike Language Census, which is conducted every five years. The study found that the average writer now speaks 37 different languages, up from 32 languages in 2016. The most commonly spoken languages include English, Spanish, and French. However, the study also found that many writers are still struggling with basic language skills, with 40% of writers admitting that they struggle to write basic sentences. The study recommends that more resources be dedicated to language education, particularly in rural areas where access to language instruction is limited.
