Tuesday TUNES
TORONTO, ON – A downtown Starbucks were shocked yesterday when a fellow patron had coffee thrown at her by barista Crystal McAdams. Loretta LaFond, age 24, only meant to get a cup of coffee before her afternoon chemistry tutorial. Instead, she found herself sporting burns on her face and being attacked by her Toike Oike Coffee Connoisseur coworker, McAdams.

"It’s clear that her employment with the Vatican is in jeopardy, unless she can prove that the Vatican is the source of the attack. We are hopeful that she will be able to present evidence of the Vatican’s involvement in this matter."

The Vatican wins bid for 2024 Summer Olympics

Holy City to be home to world’s biggest sporting event

by Kanze Lingis

The Vatican, Rome — Pope Francis stated in a press release today that the Holy See had been selected to host the 2024 Summer Olympics. The Vatican City proved a popular choice for the Games, beating out other candidates such as Tokyo, Paris, and Los Angeles. Despite concerns about the Vatican’s limited space available, Pope Francis was optimistic that the Vatican was capable of hosting the Games in a way that would be fitting for such a prestigious event.

"The Vatican is confident that we will be able to avoid the financial troubles that plagued other Olympic Games. Usually, the host city becomes temporarily bankrupt due to the financial responsibilities of the Games. However, the Vatican should be able to afford all costs due to the billions upon billions of tax dollars they receive from across the world."

Vatican representatives also noted the city’s plans in place to work around their current lack of sports facilities. Normally the Olympics require a full-scale stadium, a mimicle plot of water for aquatic events, and a large steel loop for the athletes to hold up. In order to host a fully-functional Olympic Games, the Vatican will need to make the most efficient use possible out of the limited space available. Pope Francis has offered some of the Vatican’s famous landmarks to hold events in order to further utilize the limited space. The papal bedroom is to be used for all wrestling events and gymnasiums are to be held in the Vatican Chapel. To compensate for the obstacle of housing for the athletes the Vatican Cardinals have offered some of their living quarters. This generously of fee for conditional upon visits ending by 9pm and all lights being turned off by 10pm.

All the residents of the city were excited for this event and are hopeful that it will be a great success.

In the current timeline in which O'Brien does not exist, the house in question belongs to a Ms. Parker. At the time of the events referred to above, Ms. Parker was unsure whether the house in question belongs to a Ms. Pines or to a Mr. O'Brien, which O'Brien does not exist, the house in question belongs to a Ms. Pines. It was only after finalizing his plans for Germany's next world empire with the help of his new invention, his prototype of the time machine, that he realized that he had never met a man… This is nothing like Back to the Future Part II predicted! I was way off about everything. Where the fuck is my Ronald Reagan hologram? Why would any one of people who develop really fucking stupid inventions, like his own. More moments after disembarking from the time machine, he realized that he had never met a man… This is nothing like Back to the Future Part II predicted! I was way off about everything.

Reports: Flying cars still not a reality in 2015

S olomon stepped into the future on November 15, 2015, and then stepped through the time machine, his movie, it looked pretty much like the future. The main disappointment was that there were no flying cars. I mean, if I could have one thing from that movie, it would be a flying car but not, I can even have that.

TO: How do you feel about the new book.

Gi: I feel as if I’ve taken the whole Jessica thing to a place where I will end up with her at the end of the last book – and the surprising thing about resurrection secondcoming stuff was the cleanest way I could think of doing it.

TO: Understand. Despite this, how do you think your fans will navigate Vampires?

Gi: Well, if they don’t like it then I get a special place for them. Besides, it’s important that they open their hearts to all this stuff, that they actually see that there’s a meaning in it.

TO: I sound awful...and awfully like Twilight.

Gi: What’s next for a deity like you?

The next year’s iPhone 12, the phone that has been virtually unchanged for the last five years, Apple finally unveiled their newest device, the iPhone 12 last week. Apple claims this device is both “innovative” and “groundbreaking” and hopes to push the technology world forward with this new phone.

The newest feature on this device, Tongue Recognition Technology, enables users to turn on their devices by simply licking it.

“You won’t even be using your hands anymore to turn your device on,” claims Apple CEO Tim Cook. “From now on, it’s a completely oral experience. We’ve yet again revolutionized this technology for everyone.”

Another state-of-the-art feature of the device is its 3-inch long screen, simply known as the “screeny.” Although some argue that it’s too big to fit in any pants, most users seem to be satisfied with the results.

“It feels so stiff in my hand,” said one Apple fan. However, some claim that it sticks out of their pants, and can hurt while sitting.

What caught the most attention was the fact that the phone lasts 8 hours on heavy usage. “I can play with it for hours, but it’s never been close to draining,” said a self-described heavy user. In order to maximize battery life, Apple suggests light usage at first and increasingly heavy usage as time passes.

However, all those good features take up a lot of space: the new iPhone 12 is thicker and heavier than its predecessors.

The device will be available in black only initially but Apple will later release both white and yellow versions which are supposedly smaller and lighter.

Industry analysts eagerly await what Samsung will come up with later this year but won’t be surprised if they can’t go as big as Apple. However, Samsung and other competitors already sell phones with technology on par with the iPhone 12 and have been for several years now.

The iPhone 12 is expected to penetrate the market later this fall.
